2. As noted in our memorandum of 5 May 1955, the numbers of dependents likely to be involved in this movement to [REDACTED] are relatively small. We would contemplate that at the outside no more than 15 or 20 persons would be involved under the criteria set forth in our memorandum of 4 May 1955.

but we would like to make one point quite clear; that the ordering of personnel to [REDACTED] against their wishes should not be, in our opinion, considered unless this is a part of a general Agency-wide policy widely publicized in written form to every employee within the DDP. It is obvious that the morale of such persons ordered to [REDACTED] 25X1A6a would suffer drastically if it was their feeling that they had been singled out especially and discriminated against while their fellow employees continued to accept and refuse assignments to other more pleasurable posts. In short, a compulsory career service system cannot operate for [REDACTED] alone, but must be Agency-wide and accepted as a fact of life in practice by each employee.
